Museo Civico e Gipsoteca Bistolfi

Category: Museum
business description: The Civic Museum is located in the ancient Augustinian convent of Santa Croce which in its two cloisters preserves frescoes by Guglielmo Caccia known as il Moncalvo with the help of Giorgio Alberini. Twenty-four rooms are home to more than five hundred works which represent a rich heritage closely linked to the history of the town and Piedmontese and Lombard art.

The Museum is divided into two sections: the Picture gallery, on the first floor, exhibits a fine series of paintings with works by Martino Spanzotti, Guglielmo Caccia known as il Moncalvo, Niccolò Musso (Self-portrait), Pietro Francesco Guala, Angelo Morbelli. The exhibition is completed by several marble busts dating from the Roman period, ancient wooden sculptures and ceramics.

On the ground floor are the five rooms of the Gipsoteca (Plaster cast gallery) of Leonardo Bistolfi (1859 – 1933), one of the few Italian collections able to illustrate the entire creative path of a sculptor in its fullness. More than 170 works of the symbolist maestro from Casale who achieved international fame are on show: sculptures in terracotta, raw earth, Plasticine modelling clay, sketches and models in plaster, works in marble and bronze and some drawings and paintings.

The museum offer is also enriched by the exhibition entitled “Carlo Vidua. Una vita in viaggio, dal Monferrato all’Estremo Oriente (1785-1830)”, the extraordinary ethnographic collection of Carlo Vidua, known as the Traveling Count because from 1818 until the year of his death he traveled tirelessly around the five continents, buying, gathering and recovering any type of material that he was curious about and that could bear witness to the place, customs and people he had just visited.

In the small cloister you can admire the Renaissance portal from the former Church of Santa Maria di Piazza.

From 6 September 2025 to 6 January the Museum will host the exhibition "Piero Francesco Guala, ritrattista e pittore tra sacro e profano". Dai ritratti dei marchesi Scarampi di Camino alle opere del Museo Civico di Casale Monferrato".

Opening times:
