Voltaggio - Monte Tobbio

Category: Hiking Routes

Titolo: Vol

Descrizione del percorso:

The village of Voltaggio, located at the confluence of the Rio Morsone and the Lemme streams, retains the appearance of an ancient Apennine village, embellished with some beautiful Genoese-style buildings, and is still a destination for many tourists who find fresh air and tranquility.

From Piazza Garibaldi (337 m), pass to the right of the church, where there is Once you see the signpost for the Capanne di Marcarolo Park, begin climbing alongside a dry stone wall and, after the ruins of an old house, turn left, continuing uphill towards the ruins of the ancient Voltaggio Castle.

Continue through a mixed forest of broadleaf and coniferous trees and continue along a stretch equipped with a fitness trail until you reach a fork, where you must keep left to continue climbing through a chestnut grove, near the Cravara coast. Pass a pine forest until you reach the edge of the hill. The Devil's Pulpit, a good vantage point with sweeping views of the Apennines.

Continue along the Costa Cravara, with several ups and downs, until you reach the junction with trail 401, coming from the Eremiti Pass. Continue the climb following the hairpin bends along the slopes of Mount Tobbio and reach the Dagliola Pass (856 m), a pass between the Gorzente and Lavezze River valleys.

At Dagliola, turn right and climb the slope, following the narrow path that winds between rocks and twisted shrubs. Pass the junction with another trail that climbs from the Eremiti Pass and follow the final stretch between the The pastures lead to the summit of Mount Tobbio (1,092 m), characterized by the small church built in 1897, an extraordinary panoramic point where the view ranges from the Apennines to the Po Valley, all the way to the Alps and the Ligurian Sea.
